SANTA BARBARA IS ARISING FROM MASS OF DEBRIS

Engineers Direct Work of Reconstruction; Discuss Finance

Santa Barbara, Calif., July 1—(AP)—A bright dawn spread over Santa Barbara, earthquake stricken city of the Pacific, as her thousands of sons and daughters arose to face serious problems of reconstruction which confront them in returning their city to what was formerly described as the millionaires playground and municipal gem of the Pacific coast.

Ten people have lost their lives in the earthquake, described as the heaviest to visit the Pacific coast. Five major shocks have been recorded since the first tremor of Monday, but throughout the time there have been nearly a score of slight, almost imperceptible shocks.

No exact estimate of the loss as been announced, but it has been described between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000.

To Raze Many Buildings

During the night structural engineers, who have been assigned the task of testing the remaining strength of the city's structures, began arriving from Los Angeles and San Francisco. It was freely predicted that many of the buildings, although standing and exhibiting but slight traces of the earthquake ravages would be ordered demolished to make way for more solid and substantial structures.

As the surveying party moved along the thoroughfares, wrecking parties, headed by Los Angeles and Santa Barbara firemen, began the demolition of the structures against which the decree of the engineers fell.

City Is Arising

Behind the wrecking parties came a swarm of workmen and laboring motor trucks, clearing away the debris. Santa Barbara was arising from the ruin of crumpled stone and twisted steel, a catastrophe wrought early last Monday, when the foundations of the buildings were shivered by the earth's ominous rumblings.

Meanwhile financial minds of the community sat behind closed doors and sought to solve the problems of resources to meet the rehabilitation plans.

Leisure work centered on one location today, at the ruins of the San Marcos Building on State Street, where two bodies of victims are believed to be beneath the wreckage.

Watermelon Season Starts Off Like Record Breaker

Chicago, July 1—(AP)—Always the most important watermelon month, July, is starting with shipment of nearly record breaking volume this season. The United States Government Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today that the watermelon marketing movement is already of practically the same proportions as the daily output at the peak of last season in mid-July.

The difference in the seasons has resulted in lower prices for watermelons than the values a year ago. Peach prices have also declined in the last week, shipments having nearly doubled. Cantaloupes, too, have lost most of their recent advance in price.

Meanwhile, the grape movement is just beginning in California.

Coolidge Back Again at His Summer White House

Swampscott, Mass., July 1—(AP)—Again at the summer White House here, President Coolidge today resumed the vacation routine interrupted by his hurried departure for the bedside of his father in Plymouth, Vermont.

Considerable business was laid before him by Secretary Sanders, who remained on duty at the executive office in Lynn during his absence. The executive's next important engagement is for an address on Friday in Cambridge, at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Washington's taking over command of the Continental Army.

Emmerson was charged with having sixteen wild ducks in his possession at a cold storage plant which he was alleged to have shot on February 10. None of the defendants contested the charges which were filed by U. S. Game Warden Kenneth Roehen of Peoria.

OVER-NIGHT AIR MAIL SERVICE; CHICAGO TO N. Y.

To be Inaugurated Tonight; Plan Quick Mail Service

Chicago, July 1—(AP)—Approximate 20,000 letters will take off in the first flight of the Chicago-New York night air mail service which will be inaugurated here tonight.

Vice President Charles G. Dawes, via radio, will give the word which will start the first plane, piloted by Shirley J. Short, at 8:30 central time. It is due in New York at 4 a. m., eastern time.

A second plane, piloted by George Meyers, will take off two hours later. C. F. Egge, superintendent of the air mail service, after a rehearsal last night, said that if the planes were too heavy for the two planes, others to a total of five would be used.

EIGHT HOUR TRIP

New York, July—(AP)—Two squadrons of airplanes will take off in opposite directions tonight over a trail blazed by high powered searchlights to inaugurate overnight air mail between New York and Chicago.

For 10 cents an ounce mail will be carried between the two largest cities of the country in eight hours and 15 minutes, in time for the first morning delivery on the next day in each city.

Planes in the New York-Chicago overnight service will fly over the same route followed by the machines of the transcontinental service.

"The New York-Chicago night air mail amounts simply to 'double-tracking' the existing air mail route between these important cities," said Colonel Henderson. "The significance of this new effort on the part of the Post Office Department to remove aviation out of the theoretical or military and establish it within the practical lies in the fact that this service was literally forced by business men. It has been just one year since we opened the world's first lighted airway and established what, in aviation, may be compared with a single-track railway, 3000 miles long, over which we operated one train, or plane, each day."

What was both an operating and a traffic experiment July 1, 1924, becomes a proven and acknowledged fact July 1, 1925. So far as the mails are concerned, Chicago is now located by air, with respect to New York, where Boston is located by train.

Inauguration of the New York-Chicago overnight service is in compliance with requests from financial, industrial and commercial interests in both cities, who began urging its establishment within a month after the transcontinental service got under way.

Educators Take no Stand on Evolution Controversy

Several resolutions condemning the restriction on the teaching of evolution by legislation were submitted to the committee. Mr. Lamkin said. The committee deemed it "inadvisable" to take any action on the subject.

The resolutions committee will report Thursday, the chairman asserted.

NEW IMMIGRATION LAW PROVES REAL WORTH SAYS HEAD

Commissioner Curran is Strong in Praise of Its Value

New York, July 1—(AP)—A most desirable effect of Uncle Sam's new immigration policy has been its gift to the American people of "an opportunity to get acquainted." Commissioner Henry H. Curran said today when asked to sum the results of one year's operation of the immigration law of 1924.

At 12:01 a. m., occurred the second birthday of that statute with its radically restrictive quota provisions and other features new in the history of American effort to control the great flow of immigration.

The quietness in the executive wing of the immigration headquarters on Ellis Island typified the situation throughout the broad flung buildings. The landing stage was empty and a scant half score anxious relatives held seats where formerly surged stifling crowds.

Improved Quality

A marked improvement in quality of immigrants was the chief effect noted by Mr. Curran on the flow through Ellis Island, which handles half of the 1,000 a day admittances authorized under the existing quotas.

Not only are the individuals of a higher type, but they are generally younger than in the old open door days and therefore "of greater assimilability and larger economic value to the country."

Mr. Curran said he present net quota of 300,000 should be ample for a period of years while the business of "becoming acquainted" was in progress throughout the nation.

A visitor making a return trip to Ellis Island today after a lapse of several years, would have difficulty in recognizing it as the principal receiving point for alien disembarkations. The long corridors being the screened stairs were practically empty and in the visiting "pens" only a small group indicated the business of examining applicants for admission still was in progress. In contrast with the past daily average of several thousands of temporary detainees, there were about 200 on the books of the bureau and long rows of cots were empty in the white corridors of the marine hospital.

"More of America"

"There is less of Europe and more of America, potentially, in their makeup as we now get them," Mr. Curran said. "I have noted this recently, in sharp comparison with the former average. It is due, doubtless, to the war; the youth of Europe, more than ever, demand a new start, while the aged have additional reasons for standing by their roof trees during the hard reconstruction."

Major Curran was unequivocal in his approval of the new law.

"Most of the credit is due to the consular force," he said. "Their job of sifting at the source has been remarkably done."

Deportations now average less than one percent, but the commissioner was of the opinion that this should be further reduced.

"I would never have the final inspection abroad, however," he said. "There should always be a final check at landing."

Experience has convinced the commissioner that the theory of occupational selection is a fallacy.

He pointed out that "the constant fixation on our industrial situation" made it difficult, if "not impossible," to operate an immigration policy in consonance with it.

The present effect of occupational selection, he said, was simply to give "good liars" a chance to impose on the consular examiners.

Tennant was fined $100 and costs, both being charged with possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor.

The giant tremor caused millions in property damage and, according to estimate, killed more than 65 people. This photo was taken on the scene of the disaster by NEA Service and rushed to The Telegraph by airplane and over more than 2,000 miles of leased wire.

WASHINGTON MOVES TO END CHINA MUDDLE

International Commission May Take Up Big Questions

Washington, July 1—(AP)—Instructions for Minister MacMurray, who will arrive at his post in Peking by July 4, are expected to indicate a desire here that the whole question of extra-territorial rights in China be taken under consideration at the earliest practicable date.

If the other powers concur in that viewpoint, the international commission authorized during the Washington arms conference to deal with extra-territorial rights probably would take up its functions together with representatives of all nations who have a natural interest in Chinese questions.

New instructions are under preparation at the State Department to be cabled to Mr. MacMurray. They are based on all advice received from China in connection with the anti-foreign disturbances, including the provisional government's demand that extra territorial privileges be discontinued.

Initiation of such an inquiry into the question would be the first affirmative step taken by any foreign country toward providing a permanent solution for the present situation in China.

The Washington government's always has favored curtailment of special privileges in countries able to establish adequate judicial systems of their own. In common with other powers, the United States already has relinquished rights of extra-territoriality in Turkey and Palestine, and it sponsored at the Washington conference the proposal for a commission to study the Chinese judicial situation.

Mrs. Ella Stuart Briggs, Former Dixontine, is Dead

Associated Press dispatches late Tuesday afternoon carried the news of the death of Mrs. Ella Stuart Briggs, former Dixion resident and mother of Clara A. Briggs, noted cartoonist, at her home in New Rochelle yesterday. Mrs. Briggs, who will be remembered by many Dixion people, lived with her family at 221 E. McKinney street for a number of years, her famous talent for spending his boyhood here, and she is remembered as a fine woman in every respect. She was born in Lock Haven, Pa., in 1855 and is survived by four sons. It is announced her remains will be brought to Dixon for interment, but no information about the probable time of arrival or funeral arrangements had been received up to an early hour this afternoon.

TWO FORRESTON YOUTHS TO FACE JUSTICE COURT

Escapade on Road to Amboy Monday is Cause of Action

Paul Trei and Valley Stanley, two Forreston youths, were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Myers of that place last evening on state warrants charging them with discharging fire arms on a public highway. William Eller of Amboy was the complaining witness and after their arrest the two young men were taken to Oregon where they were later turned over to Sheriff E. C. Hilsley and brought to Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Eller of Amboy visited with relatives in Dixon Monday evening and about 9:30 were returning home in their car when just south of the North Western cut off on the Amboy road, another car pulled up and passed them. The parties in the second car are said to have used some very abusive language to the Amboy man because he was not entirely on his side of the black line in the center of the paving.

Coming abreast of the Amboy car, one of the men in the second machine was said to have pointed a revolver and fired one shot in front of Mr. Eller. They then extinguished their lights and drove south at a high rate of speed, it was charged, but Mr. Eller obtained the license number which was issued to Trei and caused the arrest of the pair.

When arrested in Forreston last evening Stanley is said to have assumed all of the blame and turned over to Deputy Myers a toy cap pistol which he admitted he fired when alongside the Amboy car. Both were to be arraigned in justice court her this afternoon.

JAS. STERLING FUNERAL AT 3 THURSDAY P. M.

Will be Held at Home of Mother on East Boyd Street

The funeral of James E. Sterling, former Dixon boy, whose death occurred at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his home in Aurora was briefly mentioned in last evening's Telegraph, will be held at his Aurora home at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning, after which the remains will be brought to Dixon for services at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Dora Sterling, 217 East Boyd street. Rev. Mr. Mercer of Aurora will officiate and burial will be at Oakwood.

Mr. Sterling was born in Dixon, November 5, 1890, and spent almost his entire life in this city, graduating from the Dixon high school and then taking a course in Northwestern University, from which he graduated in 1916. He was among the first of Lee county youths to respond to the call for the World War, serving throughout the conflict in the foreign service. At the time of his death he was a valued employee of Eli Lilly & Co., manufacturing druggists of Indianapolis, Ind. Previously, for six years, he was associated with his brother, Robert Sterling, in the Sterling Pharmacy here.

He was married to Miss Laura Bell, July 14, 1923, and after his marriage made his home in Aurora. He is survived by his widow; his mother, Mrs. Dora Sterling; and one brother, Robert W. Sterling, of Dixon.

James was an upright, ambitious, clean-cut young man, whose friends were legion and who passing, the result of a complication of diseases with which he had suffered for over a year, brings sorrow to all who knew him.

The American Legion, of which he was a member, will take part in the funeral services at his mother's home and at the grave in Oakwood.

The members of the Legion are asked to meet at their hall at 2:30 o'clock to attend the funeral in a body, only members of the firing squad and the color guard to be in uniform.

Wheat Suffers Unusual Break in Price Today

Chicago, July 1—(AP)—Wheat suffered an unusually sharp break in price today, as much as 5 1/4c a bushel as compared with yesterday's latest figures. Heavy selling which started after an early advance disclosed that the market was bare of any adequate support from buyers.

Unofficial reports issued today by various crop authorities were generally taken to indicate that the total domestic yield of wheat this season would be 6,000,000 bushels more than was forecast by the government report of June 1. Besides, crop conditions as reported today both from the American and Canadian northwest were favorable, no damage yet from black rust being shown.

ORDERS SEEK SITE FOR NEW DIXON TEMPLE

Negotiating for Brinton Property on North Side of River

At a meeting of the various Masonic bodies held last evening, plans for the erection of a new Masonic Temple in this city were discussed and the reports of the Masonic Building Association, a local corporation, were presented. The association has several very desirable sites, on both the north and south sides, in view but at present the Col. W. B. Brinton property on the north side appears to be the most favored. The committee is meeting with Col. Brinton this afternoon and at this time it will doubtless decide whether or not this property will be chosen or not.

The building committee of the Masonic orders in Dixon is incorporated and consists of the following: Glenn F. Coe, president; J. U. Weyant, secretary and A. P. Armstrong, treasurer. The other members are: Louis Pitzer, Albert B. Whitcomb, W. D. Baume, L. E. Edwards, L. W. Newcomb, George Beckingham and Mark C. Keller. The committee, to which have been left the arrangements for selection of a building site for the proposed new temple, is composed of Louis Pitzer, A. B. Whitcomb, J. U. Weyant, W. D. Baume, L. E. Edwards and Glenn F. Coe.

Brinton Place Suitable

At the meeting last evening the Brinton property, with a 300 foot front facing Everett street and a 300 foot depth on Brinton avenue, was the most favored site. The property includes almost three quarters of a block and is ideally located for a temple.

While no definite place has been presented, it is understood that a temple costing not less than $100,000 will be built in Dixon very soon. Should the Brinton property be decided upon, the front part of the house will remain and be converted into recreation, club and comfort rooms, the rear being dismantled and the new temple added.

It is the plan to dispose of the present property on Fenwick avenue and First street, the building association having already received offers for its purchase. The disposition of the present property will, it is said, materially affect the negotiations for the purchase of the Brinton property.

In Historic Property

The Brinton property is one of the most historic spots in and about Dixon. During the time it has been owned by Col. Brinton, many of the notables of state and nation have been entertained in this mansion, among the guests being Supreme Justice William Howard Taft, William Jennings Bryan, Senator Ashurst of Arizona, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, J. Ham Lewis, Governor Charles S. Deneen, Adjutant General Frank A. Dickinson and the late Vice President Thomas Marshall and wife.

Col. W. B. Brinton announced today that he does not intend to leave Dixon, and that if the negotiations for the purchase of the site are consummated, he will erect a modern bungalow in this city for his permanent home.

Corn Growing Finely, State Report Indicates

Springfield, Ill., July 1—(AP)—Corn is growing finely and a considerable amount has been plowed for the last time, according to the Illinois Crop Bulletin issued here today by the Weather Bureau.

"The fields are generally clean, but they are weedy in some places," it said. "Peaches are being picked in the extreme southern part of the state."

"Rain last week caused some delay to harvesting and cultivating operations, but it was beneficial to growing crops. Meadows and pastures were improved. Cattle show much improvement in the north, and some are being cut in the central and south, but they are short in the south. Winter wheat is turning in the north, much is in shock in the central and threshing has commenced in the southern areas."

PALE—
(By Hal Cochran.)

I envy the luck of a very close friend. It's funny how luck often runs. For happiness palship and such he depends on a couple of regular sons.

A youngster of twelve and a youngster of eight kept father's right spirit in trim. There's nothing I know of, to ever abate their worth and their meaning to him.

He comes home at night to the shout of his boys and he answers their "plays with us" call. He rather expects them to make lots of noise, and it never provokes him at all.

When Saturday comes there are long hikes to take, and the kids keep their dad on the run. There may be a tour and a camp fire to make. With the youngsters it's twice as much fun.

No wonder I envy this close friend of mine who is lucky as lucky can be. On all that he does I've a very close line, for this bosom acquaintance is me.

CYNTHIA GREY SAYS—

Woman lives in hopes of conquest. She flutters between the positive thought of conquering and the negative desire of being conquered.

In this wise her natures are dual. Nature has constructed her that way. She is an unquenchable well spring of affection.

Love rules her life. Yet to man, as the poet said, love is a thing apart. Such deep-planted instincts in the female have made possible the world's progression. They represent history's background of suffering and unselfishness on her part.

Love enables the woman to give and give. She is boundless in her love because it encompasses her goal and being.

This is the reason back of nearly every married woman's harmless dreams of many love affairs yet to be.

It is responsible for the seemingly insatiable demand for stories of romance and fiction of the heart.

It likewise offers explanation in full why love's first dream to the girl leaves so great an impression.

The first love my atrophy with neglect. But it never dies in the feminine breast.

She nurtures it through the years, come what may, either death, divorce or desertion.

In calmer moments of bereavement the first love comes back to be revived in memory and image.

It curdles the false bliss of divorce. It follows death and makes reunion following absence a thing that is priceless dear.

The heart can give itself but once. There can be no real giving in part or with restraint.

When head and heart combine in the giving the deed is perfect.

When heart alone surrenders, the act shows deficiency. It lacks the sanction of the intellect. Both should sign and grant consent when those words, infinitely full of meaning, are pronounced "Until death do us part."

You read of childhood sweethearts marrying late in life when brought together again by Fate or circumstance.

And you, too, may have heard some old man or woman say, as I heard a widow, who has grown old beautifully in love and memory, say:

"No! I shall never marry again. I have had my mate."

WHY SUFFER SO?

Get Back Your Health as Other Dixon Folks Have Done.

Too many people suffer lame, aching backs, distressing kidney disorders and rheumatic aches and pains. Often this is due to faulty kidney action and there's danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Don't let weak kidneys wear you out. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late. Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Dixon cases. Mrs. Monte Brown, 1106 W. Third St., says: "I had a dull, steady ache across my kidneys and bearing down pains in the small of my back which bothered me quite a bit of the time. I was tired and worn out and my kidneys acted irregularly. A friend recommended Doan's Pills so I used some getting them at the Sullivan Drug Store. They did me of the trouble." 80c. at all dealers. CHOOSE COUNTRY LAWYERS.

About ten years ago Fred W. Sargent was a "country lawyer," practicing in Sioux City. Today he is president of the Chicago & NorthWestern railroad. In the interim he served as general attorney for the Rock-Island railroad in Iowa, with headquarters in Des Moines. The term country lawyer, of course, is comparative, considering the metropolitan resources upon which railroads can draw for their executives. The salary hardly counts, once the right man is found.

Sargent was taken from private practice in Sioux City by the Rock Island railroad and was given an exclusive railroad business in Des Moines. About the same time the NorthWestern railroad, which had taken James C. Davis from Keokuk to Des Moines, was removing him to Chicago to become general counsel for the system.

When the time came to make settlements with railroads in turning them back to their owners, after government operation, Davis was made director general of railroads. He served in that capacity until the settlements were made, and incidentally, it is said he drove good bargains for the government, skilled as he was in the railroad business.

Removal of Davis from the office of general counsel of the NorthWestern to the government position opened the way for Sargent. When a corporation wants a $50,000 man it has to take him away from someone else. The NorthWestern reached out and took the Rock Island's "find," and removed him to Chicago to serve as general counsel. He became a vice president also and active in the operating department.

Retirement of Marvin Hughitt and succession of President Finley to the chairmanship of the board of directors, opened the way for Sargent to the presidency.

Judge William S. Kenyon, former United States senator, was a railroad lawyer, who was removed from the country to Chicago to become general counsel. He was identified with the Illinois Central, when he entered upon his political career.

SUSPECTS UNPOPULARITY.

Probable unpopularity of his decree did not swerve Judge Kennedy from passing judgment as he saw it in the case involving the lease of the Teapot Dome oil field in Wyoming. When the case was presented in the United States court it was in different form than when it was presented before the senate committee by Senator Walsh of Montana and others. Rules governing law and evidence prevailed in the court. Senate committees are likely to go on fishing expeditions in which the catch may be large or small, but without limitation as to what the net may drag in.

Ultimately the United States supreme court will pass upon both the Wyoming case in which the lease was upheld and the California case in which it was set aside.

Judge Kennedy, near the end of the decision said:

"In reaching a conclusion in this case, we fully realize the degree of unpopularity with which it will be received. This is true in the nature of things, because the great general public is reached only with the sensational features surrounding the transactions involved and being largely in the dark as to all the other multitude of circumstances with which the case is surrounded and knowing perhaps less of the great legal principles which the experience of the ages has taught mankind must control in dealing with the rights of persons and property."

"The fact that this appears to be a good contract for the government as testified to by those witnesses who are qualified to speak of its character, coupled with the fact that the courts should be concerned in sustaining formal grants upon which the rights and welfare of many depend, impels the conclusion that such contracts should not be set aside for light or frivolous reasons, unless fraud in connection with this execution is clearly shown."

TO MAKE A CITY GROW.

In his Midwest Review, Senator Harold C. Kessinger names four elements which contribute materially to city growth. He tells us we must be:

- (1) Friendly.
- (2) Interesting.
- (3) Progressive.
- (4) Organized.

Friendliness means much in this connection, observes the Council Bluffs Nonpareil. We must be friendly with our neighbors and with our own town as well. We must be ready at all times to be friendly with visitors and have a good word for our town wherever we go.

Most any town is interesting if its people familiarize themselves with its history and its assets.

Progressive means progress in all things that are worth while.

Organization is valuable if it is efficient and fitted to the needs of a community.

The work that counts most, however, is covered by the first three terms in this Kessinger definition.

Uncle Sam's blockade of liquor-running ships in proving effective. A day or so ago the "enemy" admitted it was 10 percent effective. Now the job of landing liquor on our eastern coast is as good as given up, and attempts are being made to land it in Nova Scotia "at bargain prices." Perhaps they can sell it in 10-cent stores up there.

Canada has learned something.

When American prospectors in the Far North reached the Canadian line, the found signs, "park your guns."

Rifles, useful for hunting, they might take; but not revolvers for any purpose.

"The peace, even of the frontier, is safer without the traditional weapons of alleged 'self-defense'."

Even if some people have rifles and some have nothing, the others are safer unarmed than armed with pocket weapons. There is no excuse for the "guns," either in city slums or in the frontier wilderness.

A rifle over your shoulder, if you must. But not a pistol in your pocket.

WILL A SINGLE WORD ENDANGER PEACE?

Let it be hoped that the peace of Europe is not again to be jeopardized by a single mistranslated word.

That happened already, in the Treaty of Versailles and the Dawes Plan. Both these documents turned on a single word, and, in both, that one word was the only one in which the French and English versions seriously differed.

Now come reports (which may be cleared up before this reaches print) that a similar difference exists on the pivotal word of the proposed security pact.

France and England nearly broke and the peace of the world was endangered, because the French version of the treaty seemed to authorize, while the English version clearly did not, the separate invasion of the Ruhr.

Warned by this, the Dawes commission spent several extra days going over the two texts of the report word by word, to make sure that no such thing occurred again.

They might have confined their attention to a single word, since it was known beforehand that this was the only point over which dispute could arise. Yet somehow, this was the only word mistranslated in the whole report.

On the question what should be done in case of "flagrant failure" by Germany, the English version said that "it is plain for the creditor governments, acting with the consciousness of joint trusteeship—then to determine the nature of sanctions to be applied."

This word "then" was omitted from the French version, and the plan nearly failed of adoption and Europe narrowly escaped collapse, in the inevitable dispute over the difference.

An interested statesman, asked how it happened, said, "let us charitably hope that it was an oversight."

LET'S HOPE THEY CAN GET TOGETHER

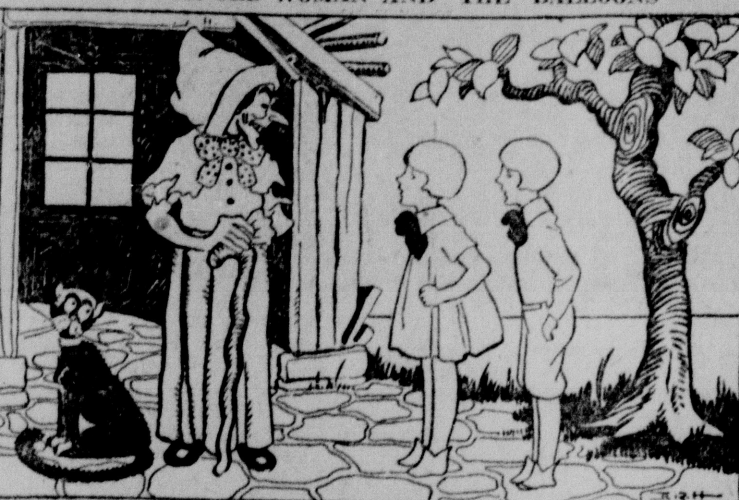

Now come reports that, in the proposed security pact, the French understand that they are to have the right, separately, on their own decision, to cross the Rhine and go to the aid of Poland, if its borders are threatened.

The British, however, emphatically understand that such a move could only be made by authorization of the League of Nations, and if made otherwise would be an act of aggression by France which would obligate England to intervene on the German side.

Doubtless, the present unofficial reports are mostly politics, to save the faces of the negotiators. But it should be made certain, especially after two experiences, that

by Olive Roberts Barton

The Sour Old Woman looked cunning. "What would you do to get it?" she asked in a whisper.

"Now then," said the Green Wizard to Nancy and Nick, "when you knock at the door of the Sour Old Woman Who Lives Under the Waterfall you must say:

"Balloons! Balloons! They all go a-popping. The loveliest tunes."

"At that she will open her door instantly, because if there is anything the Sour Old Woman loves it is balloons."

"Why?" asked the Twins.

"Because one time," said the Green Wizard, "she had her fortune told and the fortune teller said she would find her fortune through a balloon."

"All right, we'll try to remember the words," said Nick saying them over again to himself. "But what if she won't give us the key after we go in?"

"Just do anything she asks you," said the Green Wizard. "No matter what it is, do it. Then she will be sure to feel grateful and give you the key to the cupboard in Pixie Cave."

So the Twins started. They crossed a county and a township and a town and a hamlet, and at last they came to a rushing stream.

Then they went along the rushing stream about three furlongs and a league, and at last they came to a high waterfall which fell with a crash onto the stones below.

Under the waterfall was the stone house of the Sour Old Woman. The Twins went tap, tap, tap on the door and sang out:

"Balloons! Balloons! A bunch of balloons. They all go a-popping. The loveliest tunes."

"What's that? What's that?" cried these differences are not reflected in the official texts.

It is far cheaper to argue it out now, even if some politician has to lose his job for telling the truth, than to fight it out later in blood and fire.

HISTORY MAY NOT AGREE WITH THIS VERDICT

When the supreme court votes seven to two, its decision is law.

So the decision sustaining the New York syndicalist act is now the law of the land, in spite of the fact that the verdict of history will probably sustain the dissenting opinions of Justices Holmes and Brandeis.

It is now the law that the mere preaching of destructive theories, without direct incitement to unlawful action, may be made a crime, in spite of the constitutional guarantees of free speech.

The better doctrine, according to the dissenting opinions, and what is more important, according to the experience and consensus of opinion of the free peoples of the world generally, is that crime consists of act, or incitement to act, and that philosophical opinions, however pernicious, can only be crimes when they actually menace action.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

NEA Service Writer

Washington—With the Coolidges out of the way, the White House is undergoing its annual overhauling, to keep the weather out when it turns cold enough again so that its occupants need a little shelter from the elements.

Curiosity grows at Washington's vitals. Who cooked the Coolidges' meals over Sunday, just before they left for Swampscott? Mrs. Julia Jongbloet, White House cook, departed Saturday for the summer capital. The Coolidges didn't go until Monday.

That leaves at least seven men unaccounted for—luncheon and dinner on Sunday, breakfast and luncheon Monday. Rumer has it that Mrs. Coolidge put on an apron and did the cooking herself. She has and she

It's chronically under repairs, but usually it's during vacation that they're undertaken on a grand scale. The roof leaks, for one thing, and if neglected much longer would have let rain run through like a sieve.

The first floor rooms, to which the public is more or less admitted, are in such shape that visitors would be in danger soon, but for pending repairs, of stumbling over loose boards or being hit by falling plastering, as it shucks off the walls.

The fact is, the White House is all worn out. It ought to be practically rebuilt, but that would cost too much, so the policy is to stick on a temporary patch here and cover it with paint, then another one there, and keep at it until the first patch gives out, when it's time to start in all over again.

By this process of constant tinkering the old pile is kept looking reasonably spruce but it's a wreck underneath. Not that there's any danger of its actual collapse in a heap, with the presidential family at the bottom. It's watched too carefully for that. It's a problem, however, how long it can be kept from disintegrating by degrees, when it reaches a point where it consists of stucco, putty, linseed oil, white lead and nothing else.

DIXON BOY AIDS IN ESTABLISHING DALLAS BUREAUS

Edward Condon Succeeds in Agriculture Bureau Activities

The following from a Dallas, Texas, paper, tells of the success which is coming to Edward Condon, former Dixon boy and son of Mrs. Mary Condon of 502 College ave.

E. J. Condon of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation arrived here Thursday from Chicago to assist A. K. Short in getting the machinery of the first branch of the foundation under way in Dallas. Mr. Condon will spend some time in Texas, studying conditions for the purpose of gathering information which may be helpful in the work of the foundation to give a special service for the farmers of Texas and other sections of the Southwest to help them farm better, sell better and live better.

Mr. Short, who is familiarly known to farmers as Dad, is director of the Dallas headquarters of the foundation, and, as explained by Mr. Condon, will first develop the farm service division of the foundation, in which capacity he will act, as farm adviser to farm families in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

"Samuel R. Guard, director of the foundation, realizes that this part of the Nation needs a type of service distinctly its own," said Mr. Condon. "The people of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana have their own peculiar problems and Mr. Guard sees a great field for the agricultural service the foundation can render. That is why Dad Short was selected as director of the Southwest branch. He understands your problems because he has lived with them. Mr. Short will have at his command all the research work of the foundation, in addition to his own wide knowledge of agricultural problems with special reference to this particular territory. Mr. Short and his staff will be in position to answer questions of every sort of farm problems with special reference to this particular territory. Mr. Short and his staff will be in position to answer questions of every sort of farm problems to assist farmers of the Southwest to an understanding of new methods of growing crops and raising animals profitably.

"It is our aim to find out in just what way the foundation can be of the greatest help to the farmers of this section and then, through Mr. Short and the other experts of the foundation, give to agriculture of this part of the country the same constructive assistance it has tried to give the Nation at large through the general headquarters of the foundation in Chicago."

Two New Physicians at Dixon State Institution

Two new student physicians from Chicago have been added to the staff of the Dixon State hospital and took up their duties today. Doctors Giotter and Robiff, who have just entered the state service, reported for duty as members of the hospital staff this morning. It is reported that Dr. Warren G. Murray, superintendent of the rapidly growing institution is to have an assistant named to assist him with his duties. The report however had not been confirmed today.

TO SWIM RIVER WITH HAND AND FEET BOUND UP

Clinton War Veteran
Promises Unique
Stunt Saturday

It is considered quite a feat to swim the Rock river, still more difficult to swim it with hands and feet tied; when the hands are tied behind the back you have a real stunt; but think of not only going entirely across this way, but in addition wearing a complete overseas uniform including overcoat, light pack and marching equipment, and in addition to all that, towering a boat containing three men. Yet this is what Andy Gault of Clinton, Iowa, claims to have done and he says he is going to demonstrate how he does it at 10 a. m. Saturday, July 4th opposite the Assembly Grounds.

Has Wide Reputation.
Gault has gained a wide reputation by his novel and startling stunts in the water, and has twice performed before a movie camera. His picture in this stunt appeared in the New York Times rotogravure section of July 20th and two others in Times Midweek Pictorial of July 24th, 1924.

Gets Idea While in France.
He started to swim when he was eleven years old and took up stunt swimming a number of years ago but it was only recently he began using the army equipment, having first conceived the idea while serving with the A. E. F. in France.

He swims part of the time on his back, sometimes on his side, and part of the time on his breast. The latter method, in which he uses a modified double crawl kick, is a severe tax on the lungs, as he is under water most of the time. The work of propulsion is all done by the legs and feet, the arms being entirely useless.

Another Unique Stunt.
Gault, who is an accomplished musician, does another odd stunt, that of playing a cornet in deep water. He is also a practical printer, and a country editor, having conducted weekly newspaper in Iowa, Texas and Illinois.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Common ailments of middle age are heart disease, kidney disease, and hardening of the arteries.

Of these, heart disease takes the greater toll of life. In fact, more deaths are caused from heart disease than any other single disease in this country.

Yet if a person has heart disease it is not an indication of sudden death. Heart disease does not mean immediate fatality.

If a person is fully aware of the condition of his heart, and the limitations this condition prescribes, he may live to a ripe old age providing judgment is used in his every-day activities.

Vigorous physical exercise and nervous shocks should be avoided.

Sometimes it is difficult to avoid nervous shocks. They occur frequently in everyday life, and a person suffering from heart trouble may be affected by misfortune that happens to a friend or acquaintance.

But one's physical exertions can be controlled, and must be controlled if the weak heart patient expects to live his allotted time.

Women who 'Tend Fires

Like "Quick Fire Coke" Because it is Lighter to Handle, Cleaner—Fewer Ashes to Carry Out.

Coke is the cleanest of all fuels to handle and makes the best fire. There is no smoke, soot or gas to fill the house with dust and dirt when coke is burned.

We speak of by-product coke for fuel purposes in preference to any other. "QUICK FIRE COKE" manufactured by the Indiana Coke and Gas Company, Terre Haute, Indiana, stands at the head for uniform high quality and economy.

For household fuel purpose it should be selected because it is superior in all tests.

This company has just issued an interesting pamphlet on the "Use of Coke and How to Burn It." The book is instructive and will make any householder a substantial saving on his fuel bills if he follows its suggestions. It is sent to any address on request free of charge.

Always insist upon having "QUICK FIRE COKE" delivered to you. It costs your dealer no more than others and none other is so good. "QUICK FIRE COKE" is made according to our own special formula perfected after years of careful experiment and actual testing in heating homes of various kinds in all kinds of weather. No other coke will give you the uniform heat, lasting fire, cleanliness, freedom from dust and small particles and save you the money on your fuel bills. If your dealer does not supply you with the genuine "QUICK FIRE COKE" take no other, for none other is so good. Just write us immediately and we will tell you how to get the genuine "QUICK FIRE COKE" and save from a quarter to a half of your usual winter's fuel bill and avoid all dirt, smoke, soot and danger from gases or fires.

PINE CREEK CHURCH OF BRETHREN

A very successful vacation Bible school closed last Friday with an enrollment of 109 and an average attendance of 67. About 60 homes were represented in the school. The closing program was given Friday evening to a crowded house of interested listeners.

Last Sunday evening a song sermon was rendered under the direction of Sister Helman to a well filled house. Her attendance is increasing at the Pine Creek church and all seem to be greatly interested in the Master's work. Sister Helman began a singing class June 29 which will be held each evening during this week and next week at 8:00 p. m. The purpose of this class is to help all who attend to understand music better and hence to sing better. No tuition will be charged, but it will be financed by offerings taken at various times. Everyone is very cordially invited to attend.

July 4th there will be a picnic under the direction of this church held in A. M. Johnsons pasture, two and one-half miles north of the church. A short program will be given at 11:15. The refreshment committee asks each family to bring two covered dishes and sandwiches. Ice cream and cake will be served. The afternoon will be spent in sports. Bring your racing shoes, horse shoes, ball mits and bats and anything that will help to make the day a big day. Everybody come and leave your grouch and best clothes at home.

We also invite you to Sunday services.

Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. Sermon at 11:00 a. m.

At 7:30 Sunday evening another song sermon will be rendered, centered around the subject of "The two closed doors." The sermon will be on the same subject.

A hearty invitation is extended to you to attend all our services with us.

Rev. U. M. Hoeft, Pastor.

OBITUARY

MADISON B. QUICK

(Contributed)

Madison Barker Quick, youngest child of Judith Slaughter and Harvey Quick, was born near Rochester, N. Y., June 4, 1848, and passed away after a lingering illness at the home of his daughter in Palmyra at noon June 21, 1925. Mr. Quick was the last one to be called home of a family of eight children. When seven years of age he came with his mother to the home of his sister Mrs. C. R. Powell at Powell's corner, just east of Sterling, Ill. He had made that city his home ever since with the exception of about two years which were spent at Prairie City, Ill., during his young manhood. During his early life he was employed at C. E. Powell's nursery and also at Loken's nursery in Rock Falls. For a number of years he was a valued employee of the Rock Falls Manufacturing company at Sterling. Eighteen years ago last September he fell from a defective scaffold and was crippled after that time.

April 15, 1870 he was united in marriage to Miss Katherine Dunner of Sterling, who passed away Dec. 27, 1913, at the family home, 1707 East Second street, which was established December 1878. Seven children were born to this union, Elnora, wife of J. M. Gilbert, Sterling; Minnie Belle, wife of Elmer E. Byers, Spirit Lake, Iowa; Edna Mae, wife of Clifford S. Merrill of Sterling; Ralph S. Quick, Rock Falls; Ruby J., wife of Harry Macfield, Tampico, Ill.; Earl H., of Cleveland, Ohio, all of whom were present for the funeral services which were held from the Bert Pearl home in Palmyra, Tuesday, June 23 at 2 p. m. Harry Hostetter of Sterling officiating. Eleven grandchildren, two great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews also survive. The pall bearers were old friends: Mark Bassett, Addison Capp, Herbert Howard, Jacob Williams, Mr. Riddiesbarger and Nick Hilger. The remains were tenderly laid away beside his life companion in the family lot in Riverside. Thus ended the earthly life of another of Sterling's pioneers and a good father, neighbor and friend.

Did You Ever Stop to Think—

BY

E. R. Waite, Secretary,

Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce THAT boosting a city is most important work.

THAT boosting, like charity, should begin at home.

THAT the home people must believe in and be proud of the home city before they can make any progress or attract others to their city.

THAT a spirit of progress in its citizens will do much to clear the way so the city can be placed before the world.

THAT the object of city publicity is to create opinions favorable to the city.

THAT manufacturers looking for new locations are chiefly interested in the resources of a city from an industrial standpoint; such as labor, fuel, power, housing conditions, transportation and all things that would go to make a good place to live and do business.

THAT when advertising opportunities, every care should be taken that the city can deliver the goods advertised.

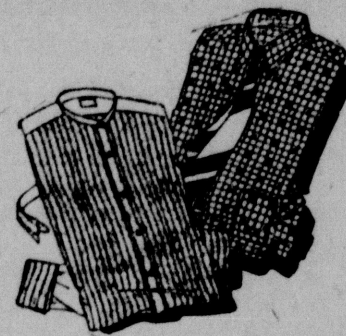

THAT no city can afford to be dishonest in its advertising. Its advertising must consist of frank statements and they must be able to back up their statements.

RESULTS CAN BE OBTAINED ONLY WHEN TEAM THINKING AND WORKING IS DONE.

Health certificates are required for all children entering the public schools of Elmira, N. Y., for the first time. Principals, teachers and all employees are given a medical examination every year.

WALKER'S SECOND
ATTEMPT TO RULE
TWO RING CLASSESWill be Made Tomorrow
Night at New York
Polo Grounds

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Mickey Walker tomorrow night will make his second attempt to enter the small circle of boxers who have ruled two divisions.

Against Mike McTigue, former light weight king, in a fight at Newark, N. J., Walker, the welterweight champion, failed in his initial effort last winter because the New Jersey boxing law forbids decisions. He was given a unanimous newspaper verdict at a knockout was required to add the second title to his list.

In his second attempt Walker will aim at the middleweight title of Harry Greb tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds in one of the Italian Hospital fund. This time there will be judges for a decision and the title can pass on points.

Former Double Champs
Bob Fitzsimmons, who held the middleweight and heavyweight honors, and Terry McGovern, kinsman of champions and featherweights, were double champions of yesterday. Joe Volcott, a welterweight, bowled away heavyweights and Johnny Buff, for a brief spell, occupied the flyweight and bantamweight thrones.

On the other hand, many famous champions have failed against the fists of heavier divisions. Stanley Ketchel, middleweight, was knocked out by Jack Johnson, heavyweight; Johnny Kilbane, champion featherweight, lasted less than three rounds against Benny Leonard, lightweight; and while Leonard in turn failed to lift the welterweight title from the veteran head of Jack Britton, Georges Carpentier met a similar fate against Jack Dempsey; likewise fared the effort of Kid Williams to wrest the featherweight title from Kilbane.

Greb and Walker took their last strenuous workouts, the former at the New York gym, the latter at his camp in Summit, N. J.

Will Meets Weinert
A half mile from Walker's camp, Charley Weinert went through his paces for the companion feature of 15 rounds with Harry Wills, negro heavyweight.

Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, N. Y., who meets Dave Shade in a six round bout, is expected here tonight after having conditioned for the fight in his home city. Shade is already on the scene, as are Jack Sharkey and Joe Lynch, rival bantams of many years, who took in the opening four rounds of the show.

Unlike recent fights here, tomorrow night's program will be broadcast by

Good Dispositions
Invaluable

You can't watch your disposition too carefully. A crab and a grouch are rarely successful. If your liver and stomach are in an unhealthy condition you can not have a sunny disposition because they affect the brain as well as the entire system. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has been usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis.

The Cub and Pirates reeled off a game yesterday in an hour and 15 minutes, the record for the season.

Art Jahn, slugging outfielder from the Flint club of the Michigan Outlaw League, was scheduled to report to the Cubs today. According to statistics, Jahn has cracked out eight homers, ten doubles and ten triples, and has a batting average of .355. Standing over six feet tall, he weighs 190 pounds and is rated as one of the greatest "finds" of the season.

Tony Kauffman of the Cubs led the league leading Pirates down with only three hits, and only one opponent reached second base, while Chicago touched Meadows for half a dozen blows, a single and a double while a sacrifice in between producing the only run of the game.

Rabe Ruth returned to the lineup yesterday, but failed to get a hit off Howard Ehmke of the Red Sox in four times at bat.

Sam Jones pitched a wonderful game against the Red Sox. He was hit in the back by one of Ehmke's pitched balls and painfully hurt, but insisted on remaining on the game.

An error by Jackson of the Giants gave the Braves their second series victory over New York.

Walter Gerber, shortstop of the Browns, is out of the game for a few days because of an injury to his ankle. Bobbie Lamotte, the Memphis flash, is filling in at short.

Ray Schalk told Manager Collins that he could see no reason for being kept out of the game just because the thumb on his throwing hand was injured. He asserted that a St. Louis cased in sticking plaster. Ray's work player was able to steal on him.

The White Sox had seventeen men stranded on the bases in their twelve inning defeat of the Browns.

PASSED ASSEMBLYDrivers of All Kinds of Licensing and regulating motor vehicles continues to be one of the chief pastimes of the Illinois legislature, according to the record of the General Assembly which just concluded its labors. During the session not less than eighty three bills affecting the interests of automobile owners were introduced, covering almost every conceivable subject, ranging from highway appropriations to printing maps, says a bulletin just issued by the Illinois State Automobile Association.

The gist of new laws turned out by the legislative mill was, however, rather small, considering all this effort, for less than a dozen of any importance were actually passed.

The legislature was generous in appropriating money for the highways. Some of the more important bills passed affecting the operation of automobiles upon the highways, are as follows:

S. B. 79. Requires motor vehicles to be brought to a full stop before driving onto or across a state hard road. Requires motor vehicles to be brought to a full stop before driving onto or across any city, town or village street which has been designated and marked as a state route through such city, town or village. Gives right of way to traffic on state hard roads, and on city, town or village streets designated and marked as part of a state route.

S. B. 88. On single track pavements on one side of a highway, requires driver on whose right is wider shoulder to give right-of-way when meeting another vehicle. Requires traffic on state hard roads having two traffic lanes, to keep to the right of the center line of the pavement, and gives such traffic right of way in its own lane. Forbids stopping vehicles, or permitting same to stand, on state hard roads unless such position that there is ample room for two other vehicles to pass. Forbids unloading of cargo or transferring same from one vehicle to another on state hard roads, except in emergency.

H. B. 116. Vests control and regulation of traffic on city, town and village streets paved by the state, in the state Department of Public Works.

Decide Rubber on Sunday
Walton baseball fans anticipate a battle royal Sunday afternoon when the Tampico and Walton teams meet on the Walton diamond in the rubber game of a series of three. Tampico evened the score with the Waltonians Sunday afternoon by winning a red of twelve inning contest.

The total number of such bills passed was small—only seven—but the cash involved totals the huge sum of $148,404,818.95. Nothing like this tremendous amount was ever before appropriated for highways for a single biennium. S. B. 63 gave $20,000,000 for road construction from the $100,000,000 bond issue; S. B. 65 added $8,000,000 for highway maintenance; S. B. 66 provided $35,000,000 for the completion of the $60,000,000 bond issue roads; S. B. 615 provided $2,704,818.95 as refunds to counties for roads taken over by the state; H. B. 251 gave $400,000 for a new bridge at Pekin; H. B. 433 gave $1,000,000 to pave connecting links through cities on the $60,000,000 bond issue system; and another House Bill, 536, added $300,000 in refunds to cities, towns and villages for streets connecting state highways.

It needed a robust faith in the end to justify such tragic means. As we advanced together through the woods we found the ape-men lying thick, transfixed with spears or arrows. Here and there a little group of shattered Indians marked where one of the anthropoids had turned to bay, and sold his life dearly. Always in front of us we heard the yelling and roaring which showed the direction of the pursuit. The ape-men had been driven back to their city, they had made a last stand there, once again they had been broken, and now we were in time to see the final fearful scene of all. Some eighty or a hundred males, the last survivors, had been driven across that same little clearing which led to the edge of the cliff, the scene of our own exploit two days before. As we arrived the Indians, a semicircle of spearmen, had closed in on them, and in a minute it was over. Thirty or forty died where they stood. The others, screaming and clawing, were thrust over the precipice, and went hurtling down, as their prisoners had of old, on to the sharp bamboos six hundred feet below. It was as Challenger had said, and the reign of man was assured forever in Maple White Land. The males were exterminated, Ape Town was destroyed, the females and young were driven away to live in bondage, and the long rivalry of untold centuries had reached its bloody end.

For us the victory brought much advantage. Once again we were able to visit our camp and get at our stores. Once more also we were able to communicate with Zambo, who had been terrified by the spectacle from afar of an avalanche of apes falling from the edge of the cliff. "Come away, Massan, come away!" he cried, his eyes starting from his head. "The devil get you sure if you stay up there." "It is the voice of sanity!" said Summerlee with conviction. "We have had adventures enough and they are neither suitable to our character or our position. I hold you to your word, Challenger. From now onwards you devote your energies to getting us out of this horrible country and back once more to civilization."

CHAPTER XV

"Our Eyes have seen Great Wonders."

I write this from day to day, but I trust that before I come to the end of it, I may be able to say that the light shines, at last, through our clouds. We are held here with

At the end of the victorious campaign the surviving ape-folk were driven across the plateau (their walls were horrible) and established in the neighborhood of the Indian caves, where they would, from now onwards, be a servile race under the eyes of their masters. It was a rude, raw, primeval version of the Jews in Babylon or the Israelites in Egypt. At night we could hear from amid the trees the long-drawn cry, as some primitive Ezekiel mourned for fallen greatness and recalled the departing glories of Ape Town. Hewers of wood and drawers of water, such were they from now onwards.

We had returned across the plateau with our allies two days after the battle, and made our camp at the foot of their cliffs. They would have had us share their caves with them, but Lord John considering that to do so would put us in their power if they were treacherously disposed. We kept our independence, therefore, and had our weapons ready for any emergency, while preserving the most friendly relations. We also continually visited their caves, which were most remarkable places, though whether made by man or by Nature we have never been able to determine. They were all on the one stratum, hollowed out of some soft rock which lay between the volcanic basalt forming the ruddy cliffs above them, and the hard granite which formed their base.

The openings were about eighty feet above the ground, and were led up to by long stone stairs, so narrow and steep that no large animal could mount them. Inside they were warm and dry, running in straight passages of varying length into the side of the hill, with smooth gray walls decorated with many excellent pictures done with charred sticks and representing the various animals of the plateau. If every living thing were swept from the country the future explorer would find upon the walls of these caves ample evidence of the strange fauna—the dinosaurs, iguanodons, and fish lizards—which had lived so recently upon earth.

Since we had learned that the huge iguanodons were kept as tame herds by their owners, and were simply walking meat-stores, we had conceived that man, even with his primitive weapons, had established his ascendancy upon the plateau. We were soon to discover that it was not so, and that he was still there upon tolerance.

It was on the third day after our forming our camp near the Indian caves that the tragedy occurred. Challenger and Summerlee had come together that day no clear means of making our escape, and bitterly we chafed against it. Yet, I can well imagine that the day may come when we may be glad that we were kept, against our will, to see something more of the wonders of this singular place, and of the creatures who inhabit it.

In shape they were like horrible toads, and moved in a succession of springs.

The victory of the Indians and the annihilation of the ape-men, marked the turning point of our fortunes. From then onwards, we were in truth masters of the plateau, for the natives looked upon us with a mixture of fear and gratitude, since by our strange powers we had aided them to destroy their hereditary foe. For their own sakes they would, perhaps, be glad to see the departure of such formidable and incalculable people, but they have not themselves suggested any way by which we may reach the plains below. There had been, so far as we could follow their signs, a tunnel by which the place could be approached, the lower exit of which we had seen from below. By this, no doubt, both apemen and Indians had at different epochs reached the top, and Maple White with his companion had taken the same way. Only the year before, however, there had been a terrific earthquake, and the upper end of the tunnel had fallen in and completely disappeared. The Indians now could only shake their heads and shrug their shoulders when we expressed by signs our desire to descend. It may be that they cannot, but it may also be that they will not, help us to get away.

to the lake where some of the natives, under their direction, were engaged in harpooning specimens of the great lizards. Lord John and I had remained in our camp, while a number of the Indians were scattered about upon the grassy slope in front of the caves engaged in different ways. Suddenly there was a shrill cry of alarm, with the word "Ston!" resounding from a hundred tongues. From every side men, women, and children were rushing wildly for shelter, swarming up the staircases and into the caves in a mad stampede. Looking up, we could see them waving their arms from the rocks above and beckoning to us to join them in their refuge. We had both seized our magazine rifles and ran out to see what the danger could be. Suddenly from the rear belt of trees there broke forth a group of twelve or fifteen Indians, running for their lives, and at their very heels two of those frightful monsters which had disturbed our camp and pursued me upon my solitary journey. In shape they were like horrible toads, but in size they were of an incredible bulk, larger than the largest elephant. We had never before seen them save at night, and indeed they are nocturnal animals save when disturbed in their lairs, as these had been. We now stood amazed at the sight, for their blotched and warty skins were of a curious fish-like iridescence, and the sunlight struck them with an ever-varying rainbow bloom as they moved.

The RED RAIN MYSTERY

HEADON HILL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SAMUEL HONEYBUN, quiet, retiring English countryman, finds blood in his rain gauge on the morning that the murdered body of Sir Francis Lathrop is discovered five miles away. Sir Francis' daughter, Margaret, is in love with—

SIR GUY LATHROP who is suspected because Sir Francis objected to his marriage with Margaret. But Margaret employs a private detective—

Adrian Klyne, who believes that Honeybun's rain gauge has some connection with the murder. Margaret tells him she suspects Adela Larkin, minister's daughter.

Klyne talks to Adela Larkin.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

"Of course, father has a rain-gauge, but don't you drag him into it."

"My dear Miss Larkin!" Klyne repudiated any such intention with the force of face and gesture at his command. "On the contrary, I was building a theory to demolish the rain-gauge idea once for all. It is a rain-gauge idea that if your father possesses a rain-gauge and such an instrument was necessary to the scheme of the murderer the latter would have used the Rector's container close by instead of seeking one at a distance."

Adela's friendliness returned. The glad eye was in evidence again. "How clever of you," she purred. "I feel quite sorry for that murderer. I am sure you will catch him."

Wife a flourish of his hat the criminologist retired in good order, and his thoughts were not wholly of crime as he struck into the road.

"Fetiching little miss!" he muttered.

"And as deep as the sea." Back at Lathrop Grange, Klyne's ruminative gaze wandered round the cozy apartment and finally settled on the little wooden horse on the mantelshelf. Somehow the sight of the toy reminded him that Margaret Lathrop had given him permission to search her father's files on the chance that he might discover some record among the deceased baron's papers that would bring to light from his earlier career a clew to his murder.

As usually happens to most of us, it was from the last drawer that he came to that Klyne extracted something that gave him pause. This was a faded cabinet photograph, dated by the costumes for the penultimate decade of the last century. It portrayed a handsome young man standing behind the seated figure of a pretty young woman holding a child two or three years old.

And the child was pictured as clutching the counterfeited presentment of the little wooden horse on the mantelshelf.

Klyne turned the photograph over and saw on the back the name of the "artist" with his address, also a number which probably was that of the negative registered for reference. He slipped the photograph into his pocket and half an hour later was in the train on his way to London. He was going to look up the antecedents of Sir Francis Lathrop's little wooden horse.

That day it was destined to lead him no farther than the studio of the photographer, whose name was still over the door in Beavis street, Brixton. A courteous, white-haired man in a velvet jacket, adjusted spectacles and bent over the picture of the handsome young man, the pretty young woman and the child hugging the wooden horse.

"My work," said the veteran photographer proudly. "But I can't remember the faces of the group. Just a moment, please, while I refer to my register."

"All right, Mr. Roscombe," replied Klyne affably. "It's you that's doing the favor. I'll wait as long as you like."

"This photograph was taken to the order of Mr. Frank Holloway on the 16th of April, 1889," he announced.

"Don't you think we can have a few restaurant and club dinners and let it go at that. You know I haven't slept at all well since the robbery. Suddenly, I will find myself in the children's room and I will not know how I came there. After seeing the children are all right I go back to my bed but it is usually hours before I can get back to sleep."

"Just now it seems as though I have not the strength to get up a party in this house. Let's wait until mother gets home and get up one then."

(Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

Mr. Holloway's long absences from home, frequently as much as a fortnight at a time, spent no doubt under his father's roof. In due course a boy was born, after which the young husband made longer stays, being from my observation much attached to the infant. But a great sorrow was in store for him, for the boy died when he was between three and four years old.

"The poor mother was broken-hearted, her one solace being, as she often told me, her husband's sympathy and kindness. Then trouble of another kind swooped upon them, though they were very reticent about it, and I never really learned the rights of the matter. A man called at the cottage one day and there was a dreadful quarrel. He remained inside half an hour, and when he came out he was cursing and shaking his fist at Mr. and Mrs. Holloway who had followed him to the door."

"What was he?" Klyne interrupted the narrative.

"He wasn't old," replied the spinster primly. "I am no judge of men's ages, but he might well have been Mrs. Holloway's father. That is what I took him to be. I guessed that he had only just discovered

"I saw you coming," she quavered at him through toothless gums. "Anyone who is interested in Baralong Cottage interests me. Were you asking about the Holloways?"

Adela's friendliness returned

Ab, I knew that sooner or later someone would do that. And of course they could tell you nothing. Come in, sir, and I will tell you what I know. It isn't much, but I was living in this house forty years ago, when the Holloways were over the road."

Klyne found himself in an old-fashioned parlor, of threadbare carpet, springless chairs and Victorian engravings. His hostess introduced herself as Miss Arabella Beazley. Folding her mittened hands, she proceeded:

"I am a very old woman, and though it is so long ago I was quite elderly when that young couple came to reside at Baralong Cottage I always like to be neighborly, and I went across and called on them. They were both at home, and I quickly formed the opinion that Mr. Holloway was better born than his wife. In fact I had not known them many weeks when Mrs. Holloway told me so, and that they had made a runaway match of it to avoid of finding her husband's family."

"That, I suppose, accounted for their retreat and had been giving them a bit of his mind. Well, whether it was cause and effect I cannot say, but Mrs. Holloway died a month after that visit. Mr. Holloway was at once sold the house, and I have never seen him since."

"Can you tell me who bought the cottage?" Klyne inquired.

"The purchaser was a City man of the name of Jessick—member of a firm called Jessick & Co., wholesale haberdashers," the aged spinster replied, with evident pride in her knowledge. "He bought the house as an investment and not for residence. He owns it still, I believe, and my acquaintance with every successive tenant has informed me that Mr. Jessick is not a good landlord. The tenants have great difficulty in getting him to do any repairs."

"During his occupation Mr. Holloway owned the house, and after his wife's death sold it to Mr. Jessick?"

"That is what I have been endeavoring to convey to you, sir."

Good Thoughts for Good People

The first clarion message, "On earth peace, good will toward men" was not the announcement of a bestowal of material blessings. It proclaimed a new era of brotherhood, of forbearance, of understanding. It fixed no measure in giving except that which teaches us to share our blessings. These multiply as we count them, and thus the more we give the more we have.

The Christian Science Monitor.
To live is not to live for one's self alone; let us help one another.

As on the sea of Galilee the Christ is whispering "Peace!"
For the will and not the gift makes the giver.

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The everlast- ing Father, The Prince of Peace.

God whose glory fills the sky; Peace on earth to man for ever, Man, the well beloved of heav'n.

Glory be to God on high,
God whose glory fills the sky; Peace on earth to man for ever, Man, the well beloved of heav'n.

Isalah.
The center of population in the United States is near Whitehall, Owen county, Indiana.

Favored mortals, raise the song: Endless thanks to God belong: Hearts o'er-flowing with His praise, Join the hymns your voices raise.
John Taylor.
Infinite is the help man can yield to man.

BE CAREFUL AT CROSSINGS

Transportation by railroad, now in its centennial, has developed in notable ways. The century has witnessed, as everyone knows, a phenomenal growth of traffic and a marvelous improvement of service. One development not so well known—although we of the railroads regard it as extremely important—is the greatly increased safety of railway operation.

The railroads are becoming safer constantly for those who work on them and those who ride their trains. Reports of railway accidents were first compiled on a national basis in 1888. In that year 315 passengers and 2,070 employees were killed. In 1924, 149 passengers and 1,533 employees were killed. This is a reduction of 53 per cent in passenger fatalities and 26 per cent in employee fatalities, notwithstanding the fact that since 1888 railway passenger traffic has more than trebled, railway freight traffic has increased almost six times, and the number of railway employees has grown from about 700,000 to nearly 2,000,000.

Accidents at highway grade crossings, which are not included in the foregoing figures, have come in recent years to be the most prolific cause of fatalities on the railroads. The growing use of automobiles on the highways is the chief cause of this. However, in 1917 there were twenty-two fatalities in automobile accidents at grade crossings for every 100,000 automobiles in use, while in 1924 there were only ten for every 100,000 automobiles in use. But despite this apparent progress in prevention of grade-crossing accidents, the total loss of life in such accidents continues at an appalling rate. In 1890, the earliest year grade-crossing accidents were reported, the number of persons killed in such accidents was 402. In 1924, thirty-four years later, it was 2,149, an increase of nearly 435 per cent.

There are approximately 245,000 highway grade crossings on the principal railroads of the country. Some of these are being eliminated, but to do away with them all through the construction of subways and viaducts would require a generation of time and the expenditure of approximately twenty billion dollars, which is more than twenty times the total amount spent on all the highways of the country in 1924.

The railroads have been endeavoring for years to prevent accidents at grade crossings. Most of the heavily traveled crossings are now guarded by flagmen, gates, bells, wig-wag signals or other protection. When new facilities are laid out, the safety of crossings is always considered. All crossings are plainly indicated. Enginemen, trainmen and all other employees are required to exercise the greatest caution possible. But the railroads alone cannot prevent crossing accidents. Those who cross railway tracks must be cautious for their own safety. It is within their power to protect themselves at all crossings. Without their co-operation the efforts of the railroads are wasted.

The railroads have taken the leadership in the effort to save lives at grade crossings. During the summer months of the year, when travel on the highways is greatest, they are appealing to motorists and others to use more caution than ever in crossing railway tracks. Their campaign deserves public support.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

President, Illinois Central System.

Extravagant, elaborate pleasures of the wealthy society set on Long Island; luxury that brought laxity; whims and fancies of joy surfeited people that meant the burning flame of ecstasy to one; sorrow to another; fulfillment to a third—yet both father and son strove for supremacy in the affections of the lily of the field they both desired with madness—what chance had the wife and mother against younger charms that blinded and tore reason from its throne—see this absorbing domestic romance.
